

COMES BACK TO ONEIDA COUNTY

Clearwater Lake Man Returns From Canada Disgusted With Country

Just read what one Oneida county man has to say about the Canadian northwest. His name is Herman North. He went to Canada with the intention of making a fortune but he soon became disgusted with the country and is now mighty glad to be back in Clearwater Lake. The Vilas County News tells his story: "It is the railroad companies and land agents who are the cause of all the misstatements regarding existing conditions in Canada. This I know, for I've just returned from Edmonton where I made a thorough investigation."

So said Herman North of Clearwater Lake, who, with Ann, Radka and wife, Ernest Hinklemann and wife, Stewart Langill, and Mrs. Gus Bentz, went to Edmonton, Canada, with the intention of locating there. To them, from what they had heard and read, Canada appeared to be the land of milk and honey—such as one only reads about but rarely finds.

"If I could have located there a half dozen years ago with several thousand dollars, bought lots and built houses upon them I could have made money. Property now is three times higher than it was five years ago. It is the apex of the boom right now and there is bound to be a slump. If you rent a shack or residence, you pay all the way from $20 to $50 per month. Those of our party who are still there cannot find a house and are boarding at $2 per day. Hinklemann and wife left Edmonton for Whitewater, Wis., the same day I did. They had enough. Stewart Langill will go where his brother James is and pick up a homestead.

"Land sharks make people believe that lots two and three hundred miles from a railroad are going to sell like they do in Edmonton and they get the buyers. I went into the immigration bureau and saw the saddest lot of prospective settlers I ever hope to see. I saw more than one woman crying while I was there. Some of them have good reasons, too. They had sold all they had in the States and didn't know where to go or what to do."

"There were two families who came from Michigan. One of the men told me that he and his wife worked all their married life to save up a little home; they sold it, and it would take all to get them back. There are five men to every job in Edmonton—and there are more coming in every day."

COUNTY CLERKS TO MEET

Wm. W. Carr To Attend Annual Convention In Appleton

Wm. W. Carr, clerk of Oneida county, will attend the eighth annual meeting of the Wisconsin County Clerks' association in Appleton, June 17, 18 and 19. H. S. Offendau, Hudson, is president and Earl M. Plant Sturgeon Bay, secretary. Addresses will be delivered by a score of county clerks, including Mr. Carr. Thomas Honagan, assessor of incomes of Outagamie county, will discuss the income tax. Governor McGovern, it is expected, will be present, as well as Secretary of State, McDonald, and one of the state tax commissioners. The delegates will be given a banquet at Waverly beach.

PRaises LOCAL THEATER

One of the Milwaukee gentlemen who attended the performance at the Majestic theater Friday night was loud in his praises of the building and the show. He said that it was one of the most beautiful and up-to-date motion picture theaters he had seen outside of Milwaukee and the show was as good as that given in any Milwaukee house. He concluded by saying that the people of Rhinelander should feel proud of the Majestic.

ELKS WIN THIS TIME

They Surprise The Cobbs To The Tune Of 10 to 8

At the fair grounds Sunday the Elks base ball team took one away from the chesty Ty Cobbs by a score of 10 to 8. Since their last encounter with the Cobbs the antlered boys took a brace, strengthened their forces and were there with the hot stuff during every stage of Sunday's battle.

As usual the game was filled with luscious plays which kept the player and the small audience of bleachers in high humor. The score, while reported as 10 to 8, is not recorded as reliable as Charles Conro kept score and had nothing to mark on but a white pine slab which became lost after the game. The third and deciding contest between the two aggregations will be played in the near future.

SAD DEATH OF JOHN MORRISON

Rhineland Boy Falls Under Soo Engine While Braking Near Owen

While in the discharge of his duties as brakeman on the Chicago division of the Soo line John Morrison, a well known young man of this city, met with injuries at 6:20 o'clock Monday evening, which resulted in his death in a Chippewa Falls hospital at 12 o'clock that night. The accident occurred near Owen. Mr. Morrison was employed on a work train and in attempting to board the engine fell between the tender and the cab. One leg was severed at the hip and the other at the ankle. The unfortunate boy was rushed to Chippewa Falls for surgical attention, but his injuries were of such a serious nature that nothing could be done to aid him, and he passed away at the hour stated. Hervey Johnson and Howard Dawson, two brother trainmen, who reside in this city, were with him when he breathed his last.

The sad and shocking death of John Morrison has cast a mantle of sorrow over his home and filled with sadness the hearts of his many friends in this city. He was a thrifty young man, whose good qualities were many, and was popular among his friends. He grew to manhood here and was educated in the city schools. He had been in the employ of the Soo line since last March.

John Morrison was twenty-four years of age March 7 last and was born in Nova Scotia. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Robert Brush, step-father and two sisters and three brothers, namely, Mrs. E. H. Schellenger, Mrs. Lenn Markham, Seth, Hector and Robert.

The body was brought to this city Wednesday evening and the funeral will be held from the residence, 903 Margaret street Friday afternoon. Rev. Grant Clark will officiate.

Those from away who will attend the services are Hector Morrison, Jamestown, N. D., Mrs. J. Y. Potter, New London, Miss Marie Martin and Mrs. Francis Brush of Antigo; Hervey Johnson and John Dana of Stevens Point.

ATTENDS OFFICER'S SCHOOL

Captain Walker Finds Meeting At Camp Douglas Profitable

Captain D. H. Walker of Company L is home from Camp Douglas where he spent four days in attendance at the annual convention and school of the commissioned officers of the Wisconsin National Guards.

The purpose of this meeting was to get the officers together, exchange ideas on military subjects and instruct the officers in their duties. Plans were also made for the coming encampment of the Wisconsin militia at Camp Douglas.

Captain Walker found the meeting a most profitable one for all in attendance.

RHINELANDER WELCOMES MILWAUKEE BOOSTERS

BUSINESS MEN AND CITIZENS CORDIALLY GREET MERCHANTS AND MANUFACTURERS IN THIS CITY FRIDAY

AUTO DRIVE AND RECEPTION AT ELKS' CLUB ARE PART OF ENTERTAINMENT FOR THE VISITORS

One hundred and twenty-five leading merchants and manufacturers of Milwaukee spent part of Friday afternoon and all of the night in Rhinelander, calling on their trade partners, mixing in a social way among the citizens and never failing to boost for Milwaukee.

It was the thirteenth annual trade excursion of the Milwaukee Merchants and Manufacturers' Association and the jolly junketers were on their fifth day out from the state metropolis on a trip through central and northern Wisconsin.

The luxuriant special train bearing the Milwaukeeans arrived in Rhinelander from Tomahawk over the Soo line at a few minutes after four o'clock in the afternoon. Hundreds of business men and citizens, including women and children, were at the depot to greet the visitors and extend to them the hospitality of the city. Automobiles were in waiting to receive the party and amid the blowing of factory and mill whistles the guests were whisked away on a sight seeing trip about the city and adjoining districts.

The route taken by the cars was arranged by C. P. Crosby, R. F. Tompkins and J. M. Baker, auto committee, and took in the principal business and residence districts of the city and also included some of the pretty drive ways on the out skirts. The trip was thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated by the visitors and many were the remarks expressed complimentary to the beauty, industrial activity and enterprising appearance of the city.

Reception at Elks' Club. Headquarters were established at the Elks' club rooms where in the evening a reception was tendered the visitors.

Mayor Baueger welcomed the guests with a few appropriate words and then introduced Mayor Bading of Milwaukee who responded in behalf of the party. Mr. Bading said that the members were out to advertise Milwaukee and increase their trade with their customers. He stated that Milwaukee had always been famous for its grade and quantity of beer, but the fact is that city is one of the largest steel centers in the United States. The whole of Wisconsin may be proud of the fact that Milwaukee steel is used in the construction of the Panama canal. He said that Milwaukee is a noted leather and shoe center and altogether the great center of the northwest in manufacturing.

In the course of his remarks Mayor Bading said that the people of southern Wisconsin have little conception of the real character of the big hearted people of northern Wisconsin and what they have accomplished in developing their part of the state. They little realize that northern Wisconsin is alive with industries and fine farms now take the place of former forests. He added that the present trip had given the Milwaukee men a true knowledge of the splendid development of northern Wisconsin.

Following Mayor Bading's speech the Harvester band played several selections after which Attorney Chas. F. Smith Jr., of this city spoke.

He said, "The visit of the representatives of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association to Rhinelander and the northern section of the state of Wisconsin can not help but result in benefit to the entire state. Mayor Bading of Milwaukee and others of the representatives have told us that in a great many places Milwaukee is known solely by the beer that it manufactures and that you hear on all sides the statement regarding Milwaukee 'The beer that made Milwaukee famous.' Mayor Bading has told us that Milwaukee is famous in a great many other things than beer and that there are other materials manufactured in Milwaukee to a greater extent than beer. In the same way you hear people in the southern part of the state continually saying that northern Wisconsin is an undeveloped country where soil will allow nothing else but pine trees to grow thereon. This visit of the representatives of Milwaukee business men ought certainly to redound to the benefit of northern Wisconsin by showing these representatives of intelligent business men that northern Wisconsin is a country of great promise and has already developed to a considerable degree. The clover and potatoes of this section are unexcelled in any part of the state. The clearing up of the erroneous idea of the people of the southern part of the state as to the possibility of developing the northern section, can therefore only mean the clearing up of a very harmful idea, for this reason as well as for a great many others. The people of Rhinelander and Oneida county welcome the Merchants and Manufacturers of Milwaukee with open arms, and ask them to come again."

Frank P. Blumenthal, president of the Milwaukee Merchants and Manufacturers' association, and William George Bruce, secretary of the association, made short addresses. Billy Reese, the humorist of the Milwaukee aggregation, entertained with a few luscious stories.

Splendid Train. The trade boosters traveled in royal style. Their special consisted of one baggage car, two tourist cars, five sleepers and a buffet car. Eleven cars in all which were the property of the Northwestern railway company. Two locomotives hauled the train.

Aside from the members of the association, numbering one hundred and twenty-five, there were twenty members of the Harvester band and about thirty-five employees, consisting of train crew, porters, cooks and dining car waiters in the party.

Many Rhinelander people, friends and customers of the merchants, were served meals and refreshments and otherwise entertained aboard the train while it was stationed at the Northwestern depot. The Harvester band gave several concerts here.

Distribute Souvenirs. While here the Milwaukee men distributed hundreds of souvenirs and samples of their goods.

The newspaper men on the train advertised the various towns visited by long, interesting write-ups in the Milwaukee papers which they represented. They did not neglect to give Rhinelander its full share of mention.

Arrive Home Sunday. From here the special went to Antigo, leaving this city at 6 o'clock Saturday morning. Saturday was spent in Antigo, Clintonville, Wittenberg and Shawano, from which city the run was made to Milwaukee arriving there at about 6 o'clock Sunday morning.

Trip Big Benefit. According to William Geo. Bruce, secretary of the Milwaukee Merchants and Manufacturers' association greater amity was evidenced between the merchants of the cities visited and the trade boosters on the 1913 expedition than on any previous trip.

"The annual trips are engendering a new reciprocal policy and a spirit of co-operation," said Mr. Bruce. "A more widely extended interest was shown this year than ever before. The enthusiasm exhibited on every hand was beyond our expectations and outdid anything in our previous experience."

Mayor Bading, President Frank P. Blumenthal of the association, and Elting Elmore were equally pleased with the trip.

EIGHTEEN GRADUATES

This Is Commencement Week At St. Mary's School

This is commencement week at St. Mary's parochial school. Sunday evening eighteen children, members of the graduating class, will be presented with their diplomas by Rev. Dr. Lienfelder at the vesper service at St. Mary's church.

Friday afternoon the class exercises will be held at the school hall. It was decided to dispense with the usual class play this year.

Tuesday afternoon the Juniors entertained the Seniors with a literary and musical program and luncheon at the school. This afternoon the children of the school with their teachers are enjoying a picnic in the Pelican river grove.

Sunday morning at 9 o'clock mass a class of twenty-one children will receive their first communion at St. Mary's church.

LEAVES POLICE FORCE

James O'Malley Resigns After Nine Years Of Service

After serving nine years as a member of the Rhinelander police force, Officer James O'Malley has tendered his resignation to the fire and police commission. Mr. O'Malley gives as his reason for resigning that he has not recently been given a salary deal as an officer. In an interview with a New North reporter he said: "I am resigning because the city is not treating me fairly. Last week a brother officer who has been on the force only half as long as I have was given a salary increase while I received no such recognition. I have always tried to do my duty as I saw it but it must be that my services are not appreciated."

Mr. O'Malley has made hosts of friends during his long service as a policeman and they wish him success in any new vocation he may enter. Mr. O'Malley's successor has not been appointed but it is rumored that Claude Shepard may be accorded the position.

HOLD TORRISON FOR TRIAL

Soo Operator Must Answer To Embezzlement Charge

James Torrison, Soo line relief agent at Hobson who was arrested last week on the charge of embezzling funds of the company, was bound over for trial in circuit court by Judge Walker Wednesday. Bonds remain at $2,000.

Thomas McCarthy, who was arrested with Torrison, was released owing to lack of evidence to hold him on an embezzlement charge.

Attorney Chas. F. Smith Jr. appeared for Torrison and McCarthy. District Attorney O'Melia represented the state.

BUYS MODEL RESTAURANT

Miss Lucy Richards purchased the restaurant of Oscar Jacobson at 16 Brown street Monday.

Miss Richards has had no little experience in the restaurant line, having for the last three and a half years been employed at Hennings cafe. She will make several new improvements at her new location.

ASHLAND ELKS SUNDAY

The Rhinelander Elks and the Ashland Elks will clash on the diamond in what promises to be one of the most interesting games of base ball ever seen here, Sunday next.

Manager Conro and Captain O'Melia of the local team state that they will have a strong line-up in the field. Many of the old timers will be in action and there will be fun galore. It is hoped that a liberal attendance will be noted.

STORE AWNING BURNS

The awning in front of E. P. Laugeson's clothing store on Stevens street was ruined by fire early Friday evening. No explanation is given for the cause of the blaze. The streets were filled with people at the time and all thought that Mr. Laugeson was illuminating his store in honor of the Milwaukee merchants. Both hose companies responded.

MANY STRANGERS HERE FOR FOURTH

All Neighboring Towns Will Be Represented At Big Celebration

Charles Belliel, Harve Tuttle and William Daniels, who comprise the committee in charge of the financial end of Fourth of July celebration in Rhinelander this year, report that they have received splendid encouragement from the business people in the way of substantial subscriptions. At the present time nearly five hundred dollars have been signed toward the celebration fund and it is the aim of the committee to far exceed this amount.

The business men and citizens in general are urged to unite in their efforts toward making the celebration of Independence Day 1913 in every way the greatest in the city's history. The Military band will have charge of the big affair and in order to make it a success every live patriotic individual in the city must give their assistance.

The committee wishes to impress upon the merchants the importance of decorating their places of business. For this flags and bunting are the most appropriate. It is also requested that private homes and public buildings display "old Glory." Every red, white and blue pole in the business district of the city will be decorated with bunting. The matter of illumination will also be given attention in order that the city may be as brilliant as day on the nights of July 3rd and 4th.

Word has already been sent from residents of Milwaukee, Woodruff, Mercer, Menomonie, and points east and west along the Soo line of their intention to spend the day in this city. It is estimated that the boxing carnival here on the night of the 3rd will be a strong drawing card.

DE LOSH-PERKINS BOUT

Fast Go Will Be Seen In This City On Night of July 3rd

Eddie DeLosh, who is scheduled to meet Billy Perkins, the local middleweight, in a ten round bout in this city July 3rd, was discovered by William Daniels in Grand Rapids, Mich., and is claimed by Mr. Daniels to possess all the qualifications of a corner. Mr. Daniels has brought out some well known mitt artists in his time but he says that few have ever given the promise of DeLosh.

Perkins has entered into training for the Michigan pug and declares that when he steps into the ring on July 3rd he will be in the best condition of his career. He means to hold his own with DeLosh and do his utmost to get in a K. O. punch.

The bout will be extensively advertised and a large crowd of outside fans are expected to attend.

A THRILLING RUNAWAY

The dray team driven by Joseph Seraphin furnished intense excitement ten o'clock Tuesday morning when they became frightened on south Brown street and ran away. In turning the corner on Davenport street the horses dashed upon the side walk and crashed into the glass front of the Wood Hardware Company. Here the team fell and it required several minutes before they could be gotten on their feet. A bystander who volunteered his assistance was slightly kicked. The horses were cut by flying glass but not seriously.

Joseph Seraphin, who was on the dray, was thrown between the animals and it was a miracle that he was not badly hurt or killed.

NINETY CARS OF SPUDS

Geo. Clark, manager of the Olsson potato warehouse in this city, said Monday that his firm had ceased buying potatoes for the season. The season commenced last September and since that time Mr. Clark has purchased ninety carloads of Oneida county tubers.

Mrs. E. L. Luther and daughter Berta left Saturday for a week's visit with friends at Ripon.

Washburn—

Mayor H. H. Peary retained his office in the recall election here Thursday by defeating Charles P. Lysager by a vote of 222 to 203. Today's campaign was one of the hottest in this city for some years. Mayor Peary remained at Madison as assemblyman during the entire campaign, his friends looking after his interests.

Park Falls—

While playing cards in a saloon here Friday Matt Lake and Andrew Maki became involved in a quarrel which resulted in Lake shooting Maki to death.

Marshfield—

Christian Yoss, aged 11 years of the town of Arpin, found a dynamite cap and wanted to see it go off. He held a lighted match to it and it exploded. A piece of the shell entered his right eye, destroying the sight.

Marquette—

Traveling with three wagons and teams, the family of William Burt Bagley, Mich., passed through Marquette, Friday enroute to Mott, N. D. There are seven people in the party, including several young children. They expect to complete the trip in two months and will locate on a ranch.

Iron River—

John Wrobel, section foreman for the Northern Pacific Railway Company at Topside, saw a moose cross the main line of the railroad near Spider Lake last Thursday. Mr. Wrobel said that he was close enough to the animal to see it quite plainly and that he is certain that it was a moose. Moose have been seen but rarely in Wisconsin in late years, though at one time they were quite common, so early settlers say. About fifteen years ago, M. J. Bell, then a resident of Brule, killed a bull moose near the south shore of Lake Superior north of Brule, and this is the last one that has been killed or seen in Wisconsin.

Couderay—

For the first time in the history of Sawyer county there were no cases to be heard by the jury for the spring term of court. Judge Wickham ordered that the jury be notified not to appear.

Barron—

This city is arranging for a home coming and carnival June 19, 20 and 21 on which days hundreds of visitors are expected to join the hospitality of the citizens. There will be a large number of attractions here.

Eagle River—

Mrs. N. M. Emmons was gored and trampled upon by a heifer which was being driven into the barn lot and but for the promptness of Mr. Emmons she would no doubt have been killed. As it was the lady sustained a bad gash in her left arm and her body was a mass of bruises where the animal stamped upon her.

Antigo—

The first building in Antigo erected by F. A. Delahall, the founder of the city is to be preserved and will soon be moved to a site at the north east corner of the library grounds where it will be restored to its original condition as far as possible. This was decided by the city council when the board of public works was instructed to procure the building and move it to some suitable location.

Tomahawk—

The plant of the J. W. Quanco shoe company in this city is to be enlarged in about two months the manufacturing of ladies' shoes will be started. About fifteen experienced hands will be employed in the new department. It is the ambition of Mr. Quanco to make his factory one of the largest in the north west and to employ a large number of men.

Ironwood—

As a result of a long and arduous struggle between the Upper Peninsula and Lower Michigan members of the Wisconsin of Antigo at the state convention of that fraternal order at Milwaukee during the winter, the Lower north of the straits will seek a divorce from the southern peninsula branch and the establishment of a jurisdiction of their own. Delegates will be sent to the national convocation at Oklahoma City next month to urge the project. It is proposed either that the Upper Peninsula alone or that it and northern Wisconsin be set aside as a separate district.

SUMMER OUTING APPAREL

At Most Remarkable Savings

During your vacation you will meet and be in contact with many well gowned women who will look refined and stunning in their toggery — It is almost needless to remind you of the fact that their gowns and costumes were purchased in a first-class store where they make a study of their ready-to-wear department—Think of the time and money those people save by buying their garments all ready made up. Not only do they enjoy the comforts of being properly fitted, but they enjoy the very latest models and the newest creations in styles.

This is just the kind of a store the Jacobson Dry Goods Co. is conducting. With our aim in view of giving the people the latest and newest at reasonable prices places our city of Rhinelander among the first class retail centers of the country. Our successful growth through your liberal patronage is a credit to Oneida County, and we say keep our city to the front by patronizing the store that the public is proud of.

AN IDEAL SUNDAY NEWSPAPER

Recent issues of The Sunday Record Herald remind one that Chicago best newspapers in the world, not excepting those of New York. The Sunday Record Herald, in foreign news alone, has its own special cable service in addition to those of the New York Herald, World, Journal of Commerce and Associated Press. This is a fair example of the completeness of the paper in every department.

Aside from the regular news features, there is something in The Sunday Record Herald for every member of the family. The sporting pages, both daily and Sunday, gives the latest authentic news in every line of sport. The woman's section is filled with illustrated articles on domestic science, "The People's Institute of Domestic Economy," filling a whole page every Sunday, is the newest and best household department in any paper. Dame Cursey's "Novelties in Entertainment" is a valued feature. The dramatic and musical pages, written by James O'Donnell, Bennett, and Felix Borowski, are admitted without their equal in the West. The array of splendid special articles by skilled writers, finely illustrated, also is typical of the high literary quality of The Record Herald. In the way of humor there is the comic colored supplement for children, besides S. E. Kiser's delightful "Whimwhams and Sentiment" for everybody.

But the thing that lifts The Sunday Record Herald most emphatically above all its rivals is its magazine section—a real magazine, full of stories and articles by the most famous writers of our day, illustrated by celebrated artists. Since its $10.00 prize story contest it has retained the services of some of the best short story writers in our language.

No wonder The Record Herald is regarded as the ideal Sunday newspaper.

GRASSHOPPER PLAGUE

Northern Wisconsin Farmers Are Warned To Kill The Pests

That farmers of upper Wisconsin are in danger of a grasshopper plague this year and should take immediate steps to kill the "hoppers" before they reach the winged stage, is the statement of Professor J. G. Sanders of the university of Wisconsin college of agriculture who has returned from a trip to upper Iowa county. It has been estimated that 3,000 farmers in Iowa county alone have suffered a loss of $5,000,000 from grasshoppers during the last three years.

A cheap spray which can be prepared and applied at a cost of about 50 cents per acre, consists of one pound of sodium arsenite, two quarts of cheap molasses, dissolved in 50 gallons of water, according to Professor Sanders. This should be applied along roadsides, the edges of fields, and wherever the grasshoppers are abundant. The spray should be applied before the grasshoppers reach the winged stage.

WAUPACA HOME-COMING

Both the Waupaca Republican-Pol and the Waupaca Record-Leader published extra editions last week advertising the big home coming celebration in this city August 11 to 15. The papers contained lists of names of people who are former residents of Waupaca and who, it is expected, will visit the city during the big week. Among the names are those of many who are Rhinelander residents. That this city will be well represented at the reunion there is no question. Waupaca citizens will leave nothing undone toward making the homecoming the biggest event ever attempted in that entire section of the country. They plan to make this celebration a genuine home coming and Waupaca and all its people will welcome visitors in the most cordial spirit.

DEATH RATE INCREASES

The state board of health on Monday issued a bulletin showing the mortality in the state during January, February and March, 1918. According to this bulletin there were 312 deaths from pulmonary tuberculosis while there were 7,949 deaths from all causes in the same period. This is 10.27 per 1,000 of population as against 12.77 during the same period last year, an increase of .59 per 1,000 residents.

A bill is before the state legislature to make the inheritance tax apply to all gifts of deceased six years previous to death of the same.

It is a great satisfaction to us that we have no masters to serve but are left to the dictates of our own conscience.

It is naughty to tell the truth about "Good Men". They should have the right to rob the public and be classed as Marjorys. It all depends on the viewpoint.

Under poor and pumper claims in the county board proceedings of this issue, No. 17 is for meat to Brown Bros. Lbr. Co. of which firm A. W. Brown is a member. Mr. Brown is a member of the county board which has charge of the purchase of these goods. Explain "Little One."

One of Friday's masters was expelled from the school board a year ago for sitting on the board as a public official and purchasing the product of a public utility of himself. He transferred his stock to his brothers, then was returned to the board as a martyr.

Friday says we should not go into past history. Forget the water-works case, forget the electric light case, forget many other such cases. But we say "By their works ye shall know them." We would probably say the same as Friday if we had the poor little fellow's job.

We stated last week that the assessed valuation of the small houses and small business places was boosted last year under Mayor Baerger and his appointees. All you have to do is to go to the figures of the assessor before he met with the equalizing board and after they had persuaded him. The history is all told in the one book.

Little Friday accuses us of insulting the Rhinelander Refrigerator officials simply because we tell the plain unvarnished truth for the enlightenment of the city taxpayers and the protection of the stockholders. If the News attacks us again on this score, we will give all the facts and let our readers decide for themselves. Come on little Friday.

According to the moral ethics of the Special Interest Organ over the way, it is a sin to tell the truth about the Rhinelander Creamery even though a part of it is a matter of court record. In the eyes of the "Little Hired Man" the common people have no rights to protect even though it is a question of life and death. If more is said along this line, we will again repeat in a connected way our relationships with the Creamery and make some additions to the chapters already written.

APPROPRIATE ILLUSTRATION

A few years ago after District Attorney Haney made a great speech on reform, a young man from the audience complimented him for his bold utterances. Mr. Haney said "Young man where is your home?" The answer was "Madison, Wisconsin." Mr. Haney replied "You have the greatest leader for reform of all—Robert M. LaFollette." The young man answered "The good business men of Madison and Wisconsin do not think much of LaFollette." Mr. Haney quickly responded, "Neither do the good business men of the Pacific Coast whom I have sent to prison for defrauding the government of lands, lumber, etc., think much of me."

THE EKERN CASE

Lawyers and Law makers will study with interest and profit the decision written by Judge Marshall and handed down by the supreme court in the Ekern case. This decision makes history in that it establishes an important precedent in safeguarding the public interest against the whimsical displeasure of a capricious executive. The intelligent voters of Wisconsin will read this decision with profound satisfaction because they know that quite aside from being a scholarly interpretation of a deeply turned and keenly fought legal battle this decision expresses simple justice.

Governor McGovern began his second administration with a fairly prompt attempt to infringe the bill known as the grand post master of the bill. Such an attempt to wield an autocratic power can be justified only when it is done in the interest of the people. Governor McGovern did not exercise such a power in the interest of the people; he made this rash and raw attempt in the interest only of himself and his meager Bill Moose following.

On a charge of undue political activity he gave State Insurance Commissioner Ekern notice about nine o'clock in the morning of last January 8, that he would be given until shortly before noon of that day, opportunity to show why he should not be dismissed from office. To show why, it was quite essential that Mr. Ekern get together his own witnesses. At six minutes to twelve o'clock the hearing was interrupted, before several of Mr. Ekern's most important witnesses had been able to testify, by the governor's order that Mr. Ekern was dismissed from office. This is what Governor McGovern calls justice. Such a no reason of justice by a Governor of Wisconsin can only be a source of humiliation and regret to the proud and justice-loving citizens of this state.

The simple fact is that the Governor was playing politics and he was pressed for time. He was afraid of the clock. Six minutes to twelve at 12 o'clock the legislature would be in session and with the legislature in session the Governor could not remove the insurance commissioner without the consent of the senate. So he fired him; fired him because he did not dare to submit his case either to a full trial with Mr. Ekern's witnesses testifying or to the senate of the state for review. It is a long time since this state has witnessed such an attempt to play cheap and unworthy politics.

Added to this, when Mr. Ekern, battling for his rights and the state's rights, refused to surrender his office under such an unfairly unfair mandate the Governor directed the superintendent of public property to seize the insurance commissioner's office by force. The Governor ordered the use of the ax in the capital of Wisconsin; the Bull Moose, in deed, was loose. But there were courts in Wisconsin and the courts stepped in.

Aside from all this humiliating spectacle the intelligent voter sees in Mr. Ekern the ablest insurance commissioner Wisconsin ever had and they see in Governor McGovern an executive trying by force to deprive the people of Wisconsin of the services of this able insurance commissioner, that he, the Governor, might build up here through such sacrifices a Bull Moose political machine that would guarantee the advancement of his own political fortunes.

That's the whole case, outside the legal scholarship developed in the court's review of the technical aspects of the case.—Madison Journal.

WATER POWER RIGHTS

Senator Paul O. Hastings has completed a study of a federal supreme court decision recently handed down in a Michigan water power case, in which the same points were raised relative to riparian rights that were brought up when the Wisconsin supreme court declared the 1911 water power act unconstitutional. Senator Hastings declares the federal supreme court decision is at variance with that of the Wisconsin court. The federal court holds that a riparian owner has no private property right as against the people in the flowing waters of a navigable stream.

"This holding appears to be opposed to the theory of our state supreme court," Senator Hastings said. "In holding the 1911 act unconstitutional the state court said the right to develop a waterpower was a right resting in the riparian owner. The supreme court of the United States appears to have upheld the principle of the 1911 act, as well as the contention of those sponsoring that act in the legislature. They believed the right to develop a water power is not a vested right, but is contingent upon a grant of such right by the state."

Potential Value Not Private
Senator Hastings says that under the decision of the state court, if the state condemned land for dam sites, compensation would have had to be awarded to the riparian owner. Under the decision of the United States court, if the state should now acquire constitutional power, it could take and condemn every undeveloped waterpower site in Wisconsin by paying the value of the power site, and it would not have to pay anything at all for the potential waterpower value.

The federal decision is likely to have considerable effect on the waterpower bill which the conservation committee will soon introduce.

Reversed $750,000 Award

The case in which the decision was reversed was that of the Chondier Dunder Co. v. Michigan, which made improvements in the St. Mary's river. Congress revoked the permit. The company sued for compensation for its waterpower rights, estimated at more than $2,000,000, and compensation for undeveloped waterpower rights. The western Michigan circuit court held in part for the company and awarded $550,000. The federal supreme court held that the company had no private property in the falls of the St. Mary's river for which compensation must be paid.

"The flow of the stream was in no sense private property," the decision, in part, says, "and there is no room for a judicial review of the judgment of congress that the flow of the river is not in excess of any possible need of navigation."

STATE CAN FIX RATES

The United States supreme court has decided in the Minnesota case, that the states have the power to regulate intrastate railroad rates and freight charges.

There is the direct statement in the decision that this power will remain with the states, until congress shall determine otherwise, by direct provision of law.

Both the government and the railroads were overruled in their contention that the rates and charges affected interstate commerce, and that the interstate commerce commission had sole jurisdiction under the federal courts.

The effect of the decision is to sustain the power of the state railroad commission and state legislature to fix two-cent passenger or other rates on business exclusively within the states, provided always that the rates are not confiscatory.

Assistant Attorney General Walter Brown, who has appeared in many cases before the railroad commission, discussing the federal decision in the Minnesota case, said:

"This decision of the supreme court is a matter of no surprise. It was generally expected by those who studied the rate regulation situation."

"However, if the supreme court had decided against Minnesota and had upheld Judge Sanborn, the railroad commission of Wisconsin would have been of little service for the future. In that event, the court would have held that the state could not regulate an intrastate railroad when it affected an interstate rate, even indirectly."

Rates Closely Associated

"Wisconsin is so situated that a large proportion of the rates fixed by our commission have some bearing on interstate rates. This is due to the large lake transportation and to the number of other points where there is water transportation. Rates to points having water transportation generally cannot be fixed without affecting rates in other states. We cannot fix a rate to Milwaukee from a point in Wisconsin without affecting the rate from the same point to Chicago. Rates to Superior affect Duluth and those to LaCrosse influence rates to Winona. A supreme court decision similar to the Sanborn decision would have left to the Wisconsin commission a very limited jurisdiction."

We would advise every citizen and every honest voter to read Jim Jam Jans for June. It is the American Medical Association number. It is well worth your while.

Women's Valuable Thoughts

Among the first American patents taken out by women were those for a fountain pen, a baby jumper, and the first brook stove. Mrs. Ada V. Velt of late years invented a permutation lock with three thousand combinations. A woman invented a process of making horseshoes which saved the country $25,000,000 in four years. A Terrible Custom

Old customs die very hard in China, and in several parts of the Celestial empire it is still considered a high act of virtue for a woman to publicly commit suicide after the death of her husband. According to the law, the proceeding is actually legal in some provinces, and such is the state of public opinion that in districts where it is officially prohibited the authorities rarely interfere.—The Wide World Magazine.

It Happened in School

The story is told of a teacher who recited to her pupils "The Landing of the Pilgrims" after which she requested each pupil to try to draw from the description a picture of the Plymouth Rock. One little fellow raised his hand and asked: "Please, teacher, do you want us to draw a hen or a rooster?"

May Ward Off Pneumonia

Here is a recipe which a physician gave me several years ago, says a writer, and I have used it in my family ever since. For coughs, colds or any bronchial trouble saturate a flannel cloth and apply to chest: Turpentine liniment—Take a pint bottle, put in white of one egg, shake well, add four tablespoonfuls turpentine, shake till foamy, then fill with good vinegar; shake well.

Why He Was Glad

The man with the long beard stood pensively at the curbing gazing at the passing traffic in the street. "I hail with delight the advent of the automobile," he muttered aloud, "for no longer need I fear crossing the street lest some hungry horse mistake me for a walking bale of hay."

Rosie Had C-charms, Too

Rosie and Ethel, though only five and seven, were bitter enemies and quarreled continually. One day I overheard a conversation between them. "I've got dimples," said Rosie, "you haven't any dimples?" "No," answered Ethel, regretfully. Then she brightened as she looked at her enemy. "No—but I've got moles."—Delineator.

Each and Every One

Each new friendship is forever.

LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT

By JULIA LEITCH.

When young Winthrop met Elizabeth at the Griffith's dance he wondered if the sensation he experienced would not in prehistoric times have been called love at first sight. He danced with her as often as possible and with nobody else, and in between the dances he propped himself against the wall and watched her. When toward the end of the evening she mentioned that she was invited to the Porters' dance the next week he urged her to promise that she would dance every other dance with him.

"But I didn't say I was going," Elizabeth protested laughingly.

"But you will go, won't you? And whether you go or not, won't you promise to dance with me anyway?"

"Oh, I'll promise that," Elizabeth assured him, "but I'm not at all sure that I'll go."

"But if you do so—"

"I'll go," promised Elizabeth, smiling.

To Winthrop's great disappointment Elizabeth did not go. He met her sister Dorothy, however, and from her he received the explanation that Elizabeth had decided that she couldn't come. Winthrop felt abused.

After several days he persuaded a mutual friend to take him to call on Elizabeth.

The day following his call, feeling that his acquaintance was sufficiently assured to warrant the proceeding, he telephoned her an invitation to go with him to the theater. She would "perfectly love to," she trilled over the telephone, and accordingly they went. The evening was one of such unalloyed enjoyment to Winthrop that he called the following week and ventured another invitation. He was surprised and somewhat disconcerted by the way she received it. She hesitated, said she would like to awfully, but really—here she glanced at her sister Dorothy who was present—she was afraid she couldn't.

Temporarily disheartened, Winthrop restrained himself from calling for a week, at the end of which time he dropped in casually with a gift of violets, and finding Elizabeth exceedingly cordial, invited her to go to a concert. Her evident delight was as balm to Winthrop. Surely, he told himself, he had been unduly affected by her previous refusal.

The concert was a beautiful success to Winthrop at least, though it was little he heard of the music. Elizabeth evidently was enjoying herself immensely, yet when Winthrop ventured the suggestion that there was another concert the following week he was met with a dampening vagueness. Elizabeth knew she'd enjoy it, she was really crazy to go. Anyway, she'd let him know the next day.

The following morning there came what Winthrop considered a very chilly note. Elizabeth had decided, after all that it wouldn't be possible for her to arrange to go.

Winthrop decided savagely that he would let her alone. The world was full of girls.

Nevertheless, a week or so later he found himself once more calling on Elizabeth. Her cordial greeting and unconvincing pleasure in his company soothed and encouraged him. She certainly didn't seem like the girl who would blow hot one minute and cold the next. Why, then, he wondered, did she behave in such a strange way? He made up his mind to find out and presently his opportunity came. Elizabeth had just spoken of a play that she was anxious to see.

"Well," said Winthrop meaningly, "you know you can go if you want to."

Elizabeth blushed. "How?" she asked.

"With me," said Winthrop, bodily.

Elizabeth fidgeted with the sofa cushion. "Oh, I'd love to," she began, "and I will if—"

"If what?" insisted Winthrop. Elizabeth sank back in her chair with a little sigh of disgust. "Oh, you obtuse man," she cried. "I suppose you're going to keep at me until I tell you."

"Yes," said Winthrop, firmly. "I am."

"Well, then," said Elizabeth, "I'll go if it happens to be my turn for the suit."

"Your what for the what?"

"By turn for the suit, Mr. Paul Pry," rejoined Elizabeth. "And if you must know all about it, I suppose I may as well tell you now. The whole painful truth is that dad was so hard up this winter he couldn't afford to get Dorothy and me each a good suit and a good party dress. As we can wear each other's things perfectly well, we got one nice suit and one silk slip and we drap the slip with different overdresses, and as we've always worn nearly the same kind of clothes, anyway, lots of people don't know the difference."

She paused and looked into Winthrop's astonished face for an instant. Then she laughed. "Isn't it funny?" she asked.

"It's—it's—tragic," said Winthrop. "But the world's full of clothes and I've always intended to furnish Mrs. Winthrop with a complete set of 'em. Wouldn't you—couldn't you—won't you see if they'll fit you?"—Chicago Daily News.

Uncle—I understand that young Brown is utterly ruined by speculation. Niece—How lucky that we agreed to keep our engagement secret.—Philadelphia Elks.

PURCHASING A PIANO

By JENNIE CONNERY.

"My wife and I have been buying a piano," said the man in the smoking car. "If you never went shopping for a piano you'd better get me to tell you how it is done. Anyway, you can't keep me from telling you."

"First, you decide that you might just as well quit hoping ever to have enough money to buy a piano, and then you take the bull by the horns and say: 'Oh, well, well go in debt for it. That's the only way some folks will ever have anything, and we happen to be that kind of folks. So here goes. We're sure always to be in debt anyway, and one might as well be hanged for a sheep as a lamb.'"

"Then you ask a number of musicians what kind of a piano is best. If you asked only one that would be all right. But you ask several of them, and that way lies madness. Each tells you of one piano that is right. No other one is. Especially the one recommended by the musician you asked yesterday—that one is the last word in superlative worthlessness."

"So after you have asked all the musicians you know you are where you began, plus a slight buzzing beneath the hatband."

"Then you decide that you'd better pick out a dealer, so you start on the rounds."

"You are received with open arms at each place and each dealer shows you what is without doubt the best piano made. You believe it yourself, when he says it that way. Besides, he shows you an inferior piano that is just as good as the better one. Get that, carefully! The inferior one is just as good as the other, every bit—made by the same people."

"But you'd be foolish to buy one of the cheaper ones. It is decidedly inferior, though it has the same workmanship and material and guaranty as the other. Don't waste your time trying to understand how this can be, but it must be. They all tell you that. No piano shop is complete without some good pianos and some other poorer ones that are equal to the best, only they are not."

"You tell one dealer that you want a player piano. He gets out a selection of the 'The Gander's Retreat From the Barnyard' or 'Moonlight on the Pump' or a descriptive piece called 'Cats on the Back Fence.' Just some little thing like that. It is in a box, and when it is unrolled you see something that looks like a piece of wrapping paper that had been shot at with a muzzle-loading army musket used for busk-shot. Yes, and every shot had struck."

"The salesman places this embroidered pattern in the fidgeter in front, where the cuckoo doors open, and proceeds to wiggle his feet while he mysteriously manipulates some perfectly simple levers under his hand. Then with writhings of agony, as if his whole soul were going into his job, he works the thing through. You are thrilled and you firmly believe that is the best piano made."

"The next day, or the same day if you stand the strain, you go to another dealer and he does the same thing. They all tell you the price is nine hundred and fifty dollars. But you are fortified with stories of how Smith got two hundred dollars off from the list price on his piano and Jones had one practically given to him to keep the other dealers from selling him one. In fact, if one believed all that one's friends have said one would be led to think that a piano costs so little to make that it is cheaper to hire some one to haul them away and burn them than to pay taxes on them in the storeroom."

"One thing you will learn in each place is that the best musician in the city—always a different person, by the way—has just bought a piano of that particular make and recommends it highly to everybody."

"I must not neglect to tell you that the salesman finds, just as you are starting to leave, a piano he had forgotten. Just before he rings the bell to send for the elevator that they use to haul passengers on he thinks—with a clap of his hand to his forehead—of a piano that has just come in. It has been used for about fifteen minutes somewhere, and for that reason he will knock seven hundred dollars off the price. Don't ever start a music store without a piano of that sort in stock. It would be a poor store."

"These are some of the things you find out when you go shopping for a piano. I do not go into the buying part, for that part is never quite clear to the purchaser. He remembers many things up almost to the moment of purchase, and then he goes into a trance and lets the man sell him almost anything to get the job off his hands."

Their Parting

All too short had been their association. All too soon had come a parting of the ways. This being the case, Mary Jane and her mistress considered it an apt moment for the throwing off of a few remarks.

"I hope you will leave in a respectable manner," said the mistress tartly. "You came with your box in a low-down, plebeian wheelbarrow."

"And I'm going away in a motor car," snapped the domestic. "My new mistress is sending one."

"Then," cavilled the mistress of the past, "why doesn't it drive up in a respectable manner to the front gate?"

"Well," replied Mary Jane, "perhaps they don't want people to think they're on visiting terms here."

The carbonic acid gas of the average living room furnishes just the elements that a growing plant needs. In so far as they are a sort of air purifier.

While smut in either corn or cane is ugly to look at, it has been found to be practically harmless for cattle to eat, even in considerable quantities.

The white or Irish potato is worth feeding to the dairy cows if it can be got for 25 cents per bushel. Potatoes make an excellent succulent ration, but are not high in food elements.

It is a pretty sensible idea for the father of the small boy to find out just how thick the ice is and how deep the water under it where the lad goes for his first skate. It may save some expenses for casket and flowers.

The Ohio Agricultural college reports a S. C. White Leghorn pullet that began laying at four months and fourteen days from the shell. If any of our readers have more precocious pullets than this they should report the fact.

At the state university at Lawrence, Kan., some of the girl students have formed a sock darning and shirt mending bureau. This will relieve the boys of a disagreeable bachelor's job and at the same time give the girls some spending money.

The pulp from the elder mill may be scattered thinly on orchard or meadow as one would manure, but owing to its acidity it should be neutralized by mixing it with lime or scattering lime after it. The pulp contains some potash and a little phosphorus.

The crop of apples of the Pacific Northwest, including Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon, is put at 18,000 carloads. The refrigerator cars in which this fruit is carried hold 600 boxes, and at an average price of $1.25 per box this means that the crop is worth in the neighborhood of $14,000,000.

A reader of this department who lives near Hay, N. D., recently sent the writer two potatoes of the White Mountain variety. One weighed a pound and three-quarters and the other a pound and a half. The tract on which they were grown produced 150 bushels nearly as large.

In selecting the breeding hogs for next season—and this holds equally with both males and females—it is highly important to select only those of the highest vigor, which come from large litters. Sometimes individual excellence in an animal tends to blind one to the importance of this rule, but it ought not to.

The sulphur smudge made by sprinkling two or three pounds of flowers of sulphur on a pan of live hardwood coals will put a good many lice and mites out of business, but to be most effective the interior of the poultry house should be given a spray of kerosene and carbolic acid followed by a thorough whitewashing.

As the colder weather comes on, when the family horse is likely to be used much less for various trips, arrangement should be made so that it can have exercise in a yard near the barn. It is positive cruelty to compel a horse to stand in a narrow stall all day, and, more than this, it is likely to induce serious physical ills.

Cabbages are plenty and cheap this fall, and it will be the part of good management to secure a couple dozen head, more or less, in order to provide the flock of hens with needed and succulent green food during the winter months. The cabbages should be hung a little above the hens' heads so that jumping for the treat will give them exercise.

With prices of good horses ranging as they do at present from $150 to $300, depending upon breed and weight, it means that the farmer who is in the horse raising business is getting between 15 and 18 cents a pound for horseflesh at three years of age. This is a good return and means a handsome revenue for the man who is fixed and fenced for the business.

A friend who lives in Chicago has solved the question of getting a fine grade of creamery butter by ordering direct from the creamery. He buys a fifty pound tub at a time, the express on which is about a dollar, and in order that this supply may not be on hand too long he sells a portion of it to nearby friends. The butter is strictly fresh and costs him from 6 to 8 cents a pound less than he would have to pay for staler butter of a poorer quality at the nearest store.

Folks older grown are wont to overlook at times the fact that little people—small boys and girls—have a sense of fair play and justice remarkably well developed, and they also forget that there is no surer or more speedy way to lose their confidence than to offend this same sense.

If the horse that has got well along in years—from fifteen to eighteen—is not in good physical condition the chances are that its teeth are in bad shape. These should be fixed by a veterinarian, and it will be helpful in some cases if the horse's grain ration is ground before feeding.

Vegetables are both plentiful and cheap this season, and a goodly supply of them should be stored in the cellar, which should reduce the cost of living considerably by doing away with the need for so much canned stuff, which has been the housewife's only recourse the past two or three years.

French inventors have designed an automobile suitable for children, having engines of less than a horsepower and guaranteed not to go faster than four miles an hour even on a down grade. It would be a mighty good thing if some grown folks in America were compelled to use just such a machine.

While tendencies to hoof contraction and some other troubles may be inherited, it is well to see that the colts' feet are in good shape when winter sets in. A little work with nippers and a rasp at the right time may prevent worse defects that may materially reduce the market value of the animal a couple of years later.

Cornstalks make an excellent winter protection for the strawberry bed, also for rose beds and tender varieties of raspberries. The point in their favor is that they furnish necessary protection from the sun so as to prevent thawing and freezing, yet do not pack too closely together and are not easily blown about by the wind.

A fact that the feeder of cattle, sheep or hogs ought to keep steadily in mind is that almost invariably rapid gain in weight of animals fed is also economical gain and that such gains usually mean a flesh quality that brings the highest price. It is nicely illustrated in the baby beef and in the shebs that weigh 300 pounds at eight months old.

The flock of Lons will lay during the cold winter months largely in proportion as they have exercise and fresh air and a ration that does not contain too large an element of fat farmers. It is the reverse of two of these conditions that is probably responsible for more leafless hens than any other—storing the Lons with corn and no exercise for them.

It's a mighty fine idea to have a check book and pay all accounts with it, but it is a very poor plan to use this same check book when there's no money on deposit with which one's banker can pay it. It's a bit embarrassing for the one to whom such a check is given to have payment refused, and it is just as much so for the one who issued the paper.

While the Golden Rule was given originally for the guidance of human conduct, it works well as between man and animals. The fellow who treats his horse and his cow as he would have them treat him were he in their place will not only be able to keep them docile and tractable, but will get from them the largest return in service of the kind which each renders.

Just so long as legal procedure and the administering of justice (D) are carried on with the prime object in view of transferring hard earned money from the pockets of the taxpayers and defendants in court cases to the pockets of greedy and scheming lawyers and only incidentally for the enforcing of law or administering justice, just so long will the brand of justice we get be shoddy and mighty high priced.

An excellent winter wash for fruit trees to protect them from rodent injury during the winter months is the common whitewash with enough blue vitriol added to give it a blue tinge and enough salt to make it stick to the trees. The wash should be applied to a good height to ward against damage by rabbits working on top of deep snow. In addition to the protection it will afford along the line suggested, it will be good for the health of the bark.

The commissioner of horticulture of the state of Washington has lately issued an order forbidding the importation of alfalfa hay from the states of Idaho, Utah and Wyoming on account of the alfalfa weevil. The pest was first noticed in the vicinity of Salt Lake City and seems to be spreading rapidly. The damage that it may do to the western ranchmen who are growing this legume is almost incalculable; hence every possible precaution should be taken to keep it in check.

Three German scientists are said to have perfected a discovery whereby they are able to make artificial or synthetic (put together) milk. The product is said to be of the same color as natural cow's milk, more nourishing, more easily digested and entirely free from disease germs. It is composed of vegetable ingredients which are digested by machinery. This new milk will keep sweet longer than cow's milk, and its strength can be regulated to suit the needs of the consumer. It is claimed that it can be manufactured and sold at 6 cents a quart.

The farms and not the big ranches of the country are to be looked to in the future for the beef supply. The cotton growing states of the south, in addition to the corn belt state, will have a part in furnishing the beef supply for the coming generation.

The farmer who will not take the pains to cure his own hams and bacon really has but little kick coming when he pays what the butcher asks for these products that have been shipped to central markets in the live form and shipped back again as finished product.

A good old friend of the writer who has passed his eightieth milestone told us the other day that not in a period of fifty-five years, in which he has kept track of farm and garden crops, does he remember such bountiful crops along all lines as in the season just closed.

While there is a temptation at times to do it, it is usually unwise to breed dairy animals of the Guernsey or Jersey type to Holsteins, or vice versa. While individuals of such a violent cross might be excellent dairy animals, this result could not be looked for as a general thing.

If the lawn has looked kind of thin and scrappy the past year give it a top dressing of well rotted and rather fine manure. This should be left on until spring, when the coarsest of the litter may be raked off with the litter and returned to the manure pile.

A fashionable woman's magazine that the writer glanced at the other day gave menus of meals for a week for a family of six to cost but $2.74. While it might be possible to keep soul and body together on such a ration, the menus outlined made one gaunt and hungry just to read them over.

Dentists say that one of the great causes of the weakness and early decay of human teeth is that so much of the food consumed is pre-chewed and predigested that there is nothing much left for the grinders to do, with the result that they get scant exercise and the blood nourishing them does not flow as freely as it should.

An increasing number of northern cattle feeders are using cottonseed meal instead of oilmeal with corn as a fattening ration, and with very excellent results. It can be bought for $22 per ton in car lots and runs as high as 43 per cent in protein content, while the oilmeal costs $25 per ton and contains 10 per cent less protein.

In watering the house plants it is a good idea to vary the usual method of watering by pouring it into the saucers in which the pots set. As much water as the plant needs will be drawn up by capillary attraction. By the usual method of watering it may happen that the roots in the lower part of the pot may not get as much water as they need.

The fine feature about a tulip tree is that once planted it lives from year to year. While a tree should be dug up and small bulbs removed once in three or four years, a lady friend tells us that she has this fall dug up a tree that has been undisturbed for a period of seventeen years, though the bloom it produced last spring was greatly admired.

Pumpkins make excellent feed for both cattle and hogs and have a feeding value that is from one fifth to one seventh that of corn. A feature that adds materially to the practical value of pumpkins is that they furnish a variety and give zest to the appetite for other feeds. This latter feature is also true of turnips, which from the standpoint of food content are much inferior to pumpkins.

At present prices of corn pork can be economically produced, but the cost of feeding, when measuring results secured, can be reduced considerably by feeding one part of tankage with ten parts of corn. A further important fact that has been developed by repeated feeding tests is that hogs fed on the corn tankage ration make one third faster gains in weight than when fed on corn alone.

It is not a bad mental gymnastic for boys and girls to picture to themselves what they will likely be in a period of from twenty to twenty-five years from now if they should keep on in the direction in which they are at present going. Indulging in such speculation ought to be enough to cause some to take stock of both present achievement and character and take a brace for better things.

While it is a fine thing if the young wife can play a Chopin nocturne or a Beethoven symphony on the new piano, it is lots more conducive to matrimonial felicity if she can bake a nice tin of light biscuits, prepare a toothsome dish of oatmeal or broil a steak so that it is juicy and tender. It's well to possess both these accomplishments, but if either must be lacking it would better be the nocturne and symphony.

Dr. F. N. Myer, one of the expert and fearless scientists of the department of agriculture, has recently set out on a tour in China, where he expects to spend the next three years collecting valuable plant life that may add to the agricultural wealth of the United States. Most of the interval mentioned will be spent in the province of Kansu, which is located in the most northwesterly part of the empire and which has never yet been explored by scientists.

If its the news you want the New North is the paper to read.

Word Much Misused.

"Fix" is one of the words that we Americans habitually misuse, but it is not often that the mistake leads to such absurdity as it does in the label of a certain stain remover now on the market. "It will fix the stain," says the notice. Since "fix" means to make permanent, the manufacturers of the stain remover have not said quite what they intended to say.—Youth's Companion.

Care of Shoes.

Evening shoes should be wrapped in tissue paper, and white shoes will turn yellow unless incased in blue paper. On most light shoe leather a spot of stain can be washed off, but where this is impossible or the shoe is too badly soiled it is better to dye it a darker color or black. Various shoe dyes can be purchased and with a renewal of color now and then you have practically provided for yourself a new pair of shoes.

Hard to Get Right Course.

Playfulness is a good means of softening social distances. A stiff, grave man is always in danger of being feared too much. On the other hand, as the self-love of many people is suspicious in the extreme, you must expect that your innocent playfulness will often be mistaken for ridicule.—Sir Arthur Helps.

Waist Occupation.

Stubb—What's the trouble, old chap? You look angry enough to fight. Penn—Oh, I'm sizzling. It took me an hour to button up my wife's waist in the back, and then I told her a joke and she laughed so much the buttons all flew open. What's the use in telling a woman a joke, anyway?

Had Her Instructions.

Mrs. Subbubs (to neighbor's child)—"Oh, this is the dozen of fresh eggs I asked your mother to send over. How much are they now, Mary?" The Child—"Please'm, it's 40 cents. But mother says if you grumble, it's 25."

Would Leave Nature Alone.

"When Nature has decided on the color of an eye, it is not for man to alter it," remarked Mr. Plowden at Marylebone in fixing a man for blackening another man's optic.—London Chronicle.

Few Use World's Cables.

Less than one per cent. of the public has occasion to make use of the world's cables.

Chinese Paper Money.

Paper money is said to have had its origin in China in the year 866, when the government issued it to relieve a financial stringency, receiving coin in return, which enabled it to pay off outstanding obligations. In the museum of St. John's college in Shanghai is a paper bill, worth 1,000 cash, the equivalent of 50 cents American money, which was issued by the first Ming Emperor (Hung-wu A. D. 1368-1399). It is nearly two feet long and one foot wide, printed on mulberry bark paper, and is a dark slate color.—Argonaut.

Tonic Laughter.

There is no spice like laughter at one's meals, the most salutary of all the bodily movements. It involves both body and soul. A good, hearty laugh stimulates the circulation, promotes digestion, and enlivens every vital organ. It is, in short, a sort of shower bath of the spirit, invigorating the whole man, and it is the cheapest luxury at our command. Moreover, cheerfulness is largely a matter of habit, and there is nothing that yields larger returns for the effort involved.

Wonders of English.

The following letter from a native of India to a missionary gives proof of the surprising possibilities of the English language: "Dear Sir: My wife has returned from your hospital cured. Provided males are allowed at your bungalow I would like to do you the honor of presenting myself there this afternoon. But I will not try to repay you; vengeance beareth unto God."

Accident Policies.

Murphy—"This 'is a liberal policy the smooth-jawed young man sold me." Casey—"Yis. Sure, there are some very attractive inducements if I get hurt playin' golf, polo, or drivin' me own aeroplane."—Puck.

Good Idea.

Woman's Suffrage Department

Edited by Mrs. C. P. Crosby, Pres. E. S. L. and Mrs. J. J. Reardon, Assistant in Press Work.

A Prize Suffrage Plea
Recently, Mrs. Belle Goodrich of Avon Park, Florida, won the prize offered by the Nebraska State Journal for the best article in favor of votes for women. The article is as follows:

"Yes, I want to vote because the ballot is a most efficient weapon against institutions and organizations that prey upon the lives of women and children, principally because women cannot vote. This disability deprives women, in a measure, of their right to life as guaranteed by the constitution to men.

"I want to vote because I have not as much liberty as my son and my husband have as long as I am disfranchised. The ballot and participation in government has always been the highest badge of liberty a free man could obtain. My liberty is not complete until I have all a free man has.

"I want to vote because my pursuit of happiness is curtailed by the lack of the ballot, much of the happiness of life comes from the ability to do or help do large things that are worth while, and that are a blessing to other family circles as well as my own. No man liveth unto himself, and no family can live unto itself. The interests of all are inseparably united that no woman can do her full duty inside the four walls of her own home.

"She sums up her argument by giving the following concise reasons for her desire for the ballot:

"I want to vote because:

(a) Intelligence is a prime qualification for voting and it is conceded that the general average of intelligence is as good among women as among men.

(b) I have to obey the laws, and therefore want to help make them.

(c) I pay taxes.

(d) I am as much interested and concerned in the things voted on as men are.

(e) Disfranchisement is a badge of inferiority and contempt.

(f) I am more capable of casting an intelligent ballot than thousands of men are.

Finally, I want to vote because I want to vote."

Available Womanhood.

"The American nation will have lost considerably by having stultified in the production of a mere material wealth the best years of a great part of its available womanhood, when the nation itself is so much in need of sons and daughters born under the flag and reared in the traditions of all that has made the United States progressive, powerful and enduring."—Sir Thomas Oliver.

Use Sea Water in Baking

The local papers are complaining about the size of the bread sold by the Iroquois bakers, who, besides charging two and one-half cents for a loaf of bread of 22 grams weight, it is said are using sea water in their bakeries.—From the West Coast Leader, Lima, Peru.

Simple Remedy for Burns.

Common whitening, mixed with water to the consistency of a thick cream spread on linen, forms an excellent local application to burns and scalds. The whole burnt surface should be covered, thus excluding the action of the air. The ease it affords is instantaneous, and it only requires to be kept moist by occasional sprinkling of cold water.

Deceiving Ourselves.

That which is called "considering what is our duty" in a particular case is very often nothing but endeavoring to explain it away.—Bishop Butler.

Farm and Garden

DOES SHELTER PAY?

Reckoning the Cost of Keeping Farm Machinery Under Cover.

A correspondent of the Kansas Farmer says that paper places undue importance upon the necessity of sheltering farm implements and that the cost of lumber and interest on the investment in a machinery shed is greater than the depreciation on implements as a result of exposure. The paper replies:

"The average 100 acre farm is regarded as having $1,000 invested in farm machinery, including wagons and buggies. It is our judgment that the average Kansas farm has nearer $1,500 invested. We are confident that the depreciation on farm equipment when exposed to the storms is not less than 10 per cent per year. We are inclined to the belief that it is 20 per cent per year. We know that a 20 per cent depreciation will apply to at least a part of the equipment.

"The more equipment exposed to the weather the larger the depreciation in dollars and cents. One hundred dollars will erect a first class machinery shed. If $100 is not available $50 will erect a shed sufficiently large to house in a very satisfactory manner $1,000 to $1,500 worth of machinery. The $50 shed will be smaller than the $100 shed, and its use will require some piling up of machinery.

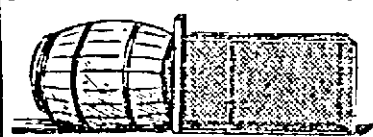

"This, however, can be done with no cash outlay and with little outlay of time and labor. If the depreciation on the shed itself is 5 per cent per year and the interest on the investment is 5 or 6 per cent per year there is still a considerable amount in favor of saving the 10 per cent or minimum depreciation on the machinery.

"It does not seem possible that a wide awake farmer would argue against the advantages of good machinery care, even though it be impossible for him to provide a machine shed."

FLOUR BARREL COOP.

Cheaply Made and Provides Plenty of Room for the Chickens.

Flour barrels make excellent coops, roomy and cheap, says Farm and Fireside, from which this article and illustration are taken. A little frame is made for the front, consisting of four pieces of board, the uprights 6 by 24 inches, and two cross-pieces, top and bottom, 2 by 20 inches. Fasten frame to front of barrel by wire, leaving opening for door.

Fasten it so that a slide door eight inches wide can be easily dropped in from the top.

This door is made of one-half inch mesh red-lead window wire, nailed or stapled to strips of wood. This gives good ventilation and is absolutely vermin proof. Cover barrel with old tin roofing or sponging, so as to make it rain proof and prevent the sun from warping it. Of course a coat of paint will add to its attractiveness, but it is not necessary for practical purposes.

Runs of any size made of wire netting can be attached to the barrel, and with netting over the top of runs the chicks are safe from crows or the annoyance of grown chickens. Barrels and runs can be easily moved to fresh ground. The runs are made substantial by the addition of a few stakes driven into the ground to support the wire netting.

CROPS AND CRITTERS.

Grow more leguminous crops and keep animals to consume these plants. This will build up your soil and increase the profits of your farm.

What the Lawyers Tell Us.

As a general rule, the owner of a vicious animal who has notice of its vicious character is liable for any injury committed by it and due to its fault.

A person who, with knowledge that his agent, in violation of his authority, is purchasing goods for use in the business of his employer, fails to disavow will be held to have ratified and adopted the agent's acts.—E. D. Keyes & Co. Versus Union Pacific Tea Company (Vt.), 71 Atlantic 201.

If you sell food to a middleman, who sells it to the consumer and the food proves to be diseased to such an extent as to cause disease in the consumer, then you are liable to the consumer for the damage to his health. This is the decision of Judge Noyes in the federal district court in New York.

A written contract should be drawn and signed by both the landowner and the renter when a rental agreement is consummated. This may avoid a misunderstanding and prevent trouble. An oral contract should be as binding as a written agreement, but the oral contract may be forgotten or its stipulations not fully understood.

GOOD AND BAD MILKING.

Things to Observe and Others to Avoid in Handling Cows.

Very early I began to milk. One season when only about twelve I and my brother, two years younger, earned $20 one season milking cows for a neighbor at a penny a cow. But I do not claim to know all about milking even now. A few things I have learned, however. Perhaps they may be helpful to some one else, says the writer of a letter to the Iowa Homestead.

One is it is a good plan not to let one's finger nails grow too long. Most cows are very sensitive on this subject. Often when you see a cow step around uneasily the only reason is that the nails of the milker are cutting into her teats.

Right in the same line with this is the habit some men have of setting their finger ends against the side of the teat when pressing the milk out. This hurts some cows too. Let the fingers be as flat against the side of the teat as possible. It is just as easy to milk that way as any and far more agreeable to the cow.

Photograph by Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute.

Some men have a way of jerking down on the teats of the cow they are milking every time they bring out a stream. This is not at all necessary. In fact, the best milker will be the one who holds his hands the most nearly in the same position relative to the teat and presses steadily and rhythmically on the teat. Nothing is gained by jerking. Rather, the cow is made uncomfortable, and perhaps her udder may be permanently deformed.

One of the blindest habits of a man ever contracted is that of wetting the teats of the cow he is milking with milk before he begins. This, he fancies, makes the process of milking easier. I have seen the hands of milkers which fairly reeked with the discolored milk as it oozed between their fingers. The man who does this is not a fit hand for work. More or less of the foul liquid will get into the pail and help to make the milk insalubrious. Some cows do milk hard, but almost always there will be some man who is strong enough in the hands to milk them without resorting to any such uncleanly habit as this.

Finally, three words ought always to be in the mind of every milkman—carefulness, cleanliness and kindness.

TO BECOME A WISE FARMER.

In farming do not theorize, do not philosophize too much. Live the life of a farmer, keep in sympathetic touch with the plant and animal life about you, and the philosophy will take care of itself. It is astonishing how wise a farmer can become who is willing to be taught by what he sees and experiences. But this one thing he must remember—that the deductions of science have been obtained the same way, and so it is well to make friends of these deductions.—Hoard's Dairyman.

How to Test Your Soil.

Secure a small sample of soil free from roots and grass and put it in a glass. Insert two strips of blue litmus paper in the soil so that they are half covered. Then add pure water very carefully until the soil is thoroughly saturated. After the test has stood for several minutes the paper is removed and rinsed thoroughly. If that portion of it which was in contact with the soil has become red, then the soil is acid and would be benefited by liming. The litmus paper may be bought at almost any drug store.—Iowa Circular.

Dip Your Posts Before Setting.

A circular of the Missouri experiment station says: Thoroughly seasoned posts will last much longer than those that are set green. Good results have been obtained by charring the ends of the posts over an open fire. The posts must be thoroughly seasoned to prevent splitting or checking, and the charring must extend at least six inches above the surface of the ground when the post is set. Dipping the post in some preservative substance like tar, petroleum or creosote will help to keep out the moisture and will also tend to prevent the entrance of fungi.

Taking Out the Posts.

In pulling mortised fenceposts do you wish to do it with ease and dispatch? Loosen the earth a little around each post. Insert a lever through a mortise in the post; use first the wheel, then the dashboard of your wheelbarrow as a fulcrum, and the trick is done.—Farm Journal.

Recover Stolen Tombstone.

A stolen tombstone was unearthed during excavations following a recent fire in a shop in Girvan (Ayr). The workmen dug out a tombstone in an excellent state of preservation, bearing the following inscription: "By Anthony Campbell, Sadler, in Memory of His Daughter, Jean. Died July 1st, 1826, Aged 18 Years and Six Months." It is believed that the stone was stolen from the old Girvan churchyard and converted into a hearthstone, a quite common occurrence in the early days of the nineteenth century.—London Mail.

Softening Light for Invalid.

When any one is ill electric light in the room, if very strong, will tend to hurt the eyes and probably induce headache and cause a rise of temperature. A little bag made of green silk, large enough to slip easily right over the light, shade and all, can be fitted on and will look dainty and pretty. Run a drawstring in so as to tie it on quickly, otherwise the patient will object to the fuss.

Just Married, Too.

"Young man," said the magistrate, severely, "the assault you have committed on your poor wife is a most brutal one. Do you know of any reason why I should not send you to prison?" "If you do, your honor," replied the prisoner at the bar, hopefully, "it will break up our honeymoon."

NEW GOLD CURTAIN

At great expense the management has installed a wonderful gold fibre screen or curtain in the Majestic theater. This enables the management to offer the public 150 percent better and clearer pictures than he has ever been in a position to offer his patrons before.

By the use of this wonderful curtain natural colors are brought out and shown instead of these glassy black and white pictures of the past. Pictures may be shown with all the lights on instead of being shown in the dark. You can see who your neighbor is and if you desire to sit by him or her, no more hunting around for seats in the dark.

In case of fire you can see your way out. One picture will be shown each right in a brilliantly lighted house; you will appreciate the new arrangement. 'Tis novel, pleasing and worth while.

MARRY IN THE WEST

Ora Porter Grant and Walter Steele were united in marriage at Everett, Wash., on June 11. The ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ross.

"When Ora Porter Grants her heart, To one as true as Steele, There surely cannot be a doubt About the fairness of the deal."

A Lady's Comment

On Medicine and Religion

The following letter is from a lady whose name I am not at liberty to use. If I should mention her name she would be known by almost every reader. She writes in part: Dr. H. R. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio:

"Your article entitled 'Medicine and Religion' has been read and re-read by me many times. It seems to me that the article contains the substance of all that has been said about Christian Science, new thought, suggestive therapeutics and other forms of mental healing.

"I am very much pleased to observe that you are putting out into the world such useful literature. It will do untold good, without doubt; not only for those who take medicine, but for those who try to get along without taking medicine. Your article is terse, to the point, and will be read by thousands.

"Medicine and religion have always been very closely associated. Only in very recent years have the two been regarded as separate professions. I am glad you brought this out so clearly. The tendency of to-day is strongly in the direction of medicine and religion coming back together again. With your immense facilities for spreading useful information I am sure you will greatly assist the progress of the times in sending out broadcast such articles. I want you to know that your efforts are appreciated.

"As to Peruna, I have nothing to say. I very seldom make use of any medicine. But I assure you that your article has so enthused me with the good advice it contains that if I have any need for medicine I shall certainly buy a bottle of Peruna. I shall not neglect to recommend it to others also." PERUNA SOLD AT ALL DRUG STORES.

SPECIAL NOTICE—Many persons are making inquiries for the old-time Peruna. To such would say, this formula is now put out under the name of KA-TAR-NO, manufactured by KA-TAR-NO Company, Columbus, Ohio. Write them and they will be pleased to send you a free booklet.

Our Last and Final Effort to Clean Up Every Summer Coat Left in Stock—Your Best Chance

Experiment Worth Trying. Morning, before breakfast, is said to be the very best time for thinking. There are always exceptions. Then, again, there are many who declare they can think better at night, who perhaps never tried the experiment of giving serious thoughts to anything before breakfasting.

New Methods in Vogue. "What made you take down that sign 'No Agents or Solicitors Allowed in This Building'?" "It's no use any more," replied the janitor. "Anybody who wants to take down the public's spare change nowadays gets out a prospectus and uses postage stamps."

Mary Jones Tells. Some years ago in a western mining town a man was found dead in his hotel room hanged to a bedpost by his suspenders. The jury of miners brought in the following verdict at the coroner's inquest: "Deceased came to his death by coming home full and mistaking himself for his pants."
